ORDER:

PER CURIAM. This case was previously before us on May 15, 2002, when we summarily affirmed, without opinion, the Immigration Judge's decision denying the respondent's applications for asylum, withholding of removal, and protection under the Convention Against Torture. The matter is now before us pursuant to the (b) (6) decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the (b) (6) (b) (6) (en banc). In its lengthy decision, the court set forth in detail many problems it had with the Immigration Judge's adverse credibility finding in this case, and it remanded the matter for further consideration of the respondent's persecution claims.

In remanding the case, the court noted the respondent's request that it simply grant his application for asylum. However, it declined to do so, stating, "we are not finding (b) (6) credible." Rather, it remanded the case, "for the agency to further explain or supplement the record." We note the respondent's request, in a brief and motion filed following the court's decision, that we grant the respondent's asylum application outright. However, it appears to us that the court contemplated further proceedings before the Immigration Judge. We therefore find that a remand is appropriate.

(b) (6)

Accordingly, the record is remanded to the Immigration Judge for further proceedings consistent with the decision of the (b) (6)
